BEATEN AT HIS STAND.

Newsman Trywusch Eelieves His Assailant Acted for Others.

His Wife Was a Lexow Witness and Told of Police Extortion.

Officers Were Slow to Make an Arrest and a Witness Disappeared.

Martin Healy, of nowhere in particular, was held in $200 ball by Justice Grady, in the Tombs Police Court, this morning, for examination next Wednesday morning, on a charge of assault-ing Samuel Trywurch, of 242 Tillary street, Brooklyn.

The assault occurred at 6 o'clock this morning at Park Row and Mulberry street, where Trywusch has a news-

The peculiar and significant phase of the affair is that Healy is an entire stranger to Trywusch, and had absolutely no known motive for making the assault-unless he was employed by somebody else.

This is precisely what Trywus claims was the case. Trywusch is the husband of Anna Trywusch, who testified last Wednes-day before the Lexow Committee that she had been arrested that morning for efusing to pay $5 "protection" money o Policeman Lynch, of the Madison refusing to pay 5 "protection" money to Policeman Lynch, of the Madison street station.

She said she had a news-stand at Rutgers street and East Broadway, and that Lynch told her she had no right, as a resident of Brooklyn, to have a stand in New York.

When Mrs. Trywusch told Lynch that she had no money to give him he arrested her, she said, and took her to the Essex Market Court, where she was promptly discharged. An hour later she was testifying before the Lexow Committee about the alleged outrage.

The assault of this morning, says Trywusch, was the direct outcome of the testimony given by his wife. In corroboration of this opinion, Trywusch points to the very remarkable conduct of the police after the assault.

"My wife" s.id Trywusch, "just happened to come to my relief, or I suppose I should have been killed. After she had managed to get hold of Healy so as to keep him away from me, Paliceman Brady and another policeman cance along leisurely and placed Healy under arrest.

"The officer who accompanied Brady carte along leisurely and placed Healy under arrest.

"The officer who accompanied Brady then went away and the latter walked at a snall's pace with his prisoner until we got to Mott street, where we met Policeman Bennett.

"Erady turned the prisoner over to Bennett, and my wife heard him say; "This is the East Brondway woman. I'll tell you later."

Frestiney was a clerk in the employ of Forster, Frere & Co., London, England, and have been with them for many years. On Sept. 24 last Freshney forged the name of the firm to a check for 650 m. Hore's Bank, London, and obtained the money readily, the forgery being very cleverly done. He then left Lon-

British Consul Fraser the properties, waving him aside in such ly reade a motion with his hand to be added to the Grand Jury that they was not convey the impression that he wanted him to keep out of the case. "After that Baumgarten resollected that he had no time to spare and told me he could not appear as my witness."

In court this morning, when Policeman Bennett siw that Trywusch intended making a strong light, and had retained a lawyer, he asked the Justice to postpone the case until the missing witness could be preduced in court. The lawyer insisted that this witness was not needed, as there were other witnesses present who had seen the occurrence, and that their testimony would be sufficient. Notwithstanding this Justice Grady adjourned the case until 10 c clock Weinesday morning.

"By that time," said Trywusch, while leaving the court-room, "the witness will belong, body and soul, to the other will belong, body and soul, to the other side."

Trywusch's lawyer says that Brady had no right to turn over Healy 10 mother officer, particularly when the latter had not witnessed the affray.

Policeman Bennett says that Brady had not yet arrested Healy when he turned he nover, and that he had only been taking the along until they came across ser chody who could translate what Trywingh had to say.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8 .- A during robbery took place last night at the saloon of Herman L. Feucht. The proprietor and several quarry laborers were in the saloon when the door suddenly opened and a tall man, wearing a slouch hat and with a handkerchief over his face and with a handkerchief over his face. Ied five masked men into the place. The intruders covered those in the salour with drawn revolvers and ordered them to throw up their hands. The victims were placed in line and while five of the robbers kept them covered with revolvers, the other went through their packages, the other went through their packages, securing from the saloun-keeper the profits of ten days. The other man contributed small amounts to the robbers' booty.

The robbers then flet, and ran into the railroad yards, where they were con-called by the many cars standing on the track consideration, published exclusively in "The World" yesterday, caused much The World' yesterday, caused much comment.

The information came from a source the reliability of which cannot be doubted. It was to the effect that a man high in Tammany circles first offered Mr. Goff $30,000 to withdraw. The figure was afterwards raised to $20,000. Then it was declared that Tammany would offer no opposition to him for the Mayoralty if he would withdraw. The three soffers were refused.

It was nearly if o'clock when Mr. Goff arrived at his office to-day. He declined positively to speak on the subject. His attention was called to a denial of the story jublished in a morning paper. The patter quoted Mr. Goff as saying.
